PEDIATRICS Vol. 61 No. 2 February 1978, pp. 326-327

The Diet Wasn't Controlled

James S. Miller M.D.¹

While the article of Conners et al. (Pediatrics 58:154, August 1976) is not the worst you have published, it is surely in active competition. The fundamental point relates to the diets. In what real sense is the second diet a "control" so as to permit the appellation "double blind"?

I list in the Table the principal foods to be omitted in each diet. Dr. Conners et al. do not tell us what their 15 children did eat, before or during the diets.
